Background of the Seminar

Indian economy has been continuously grabbing world attention since 1991. As the world's perception of India is changing, so is India's perception of itself. The importance of Indian economy is growing due to massive changes in macroeconomic policies, technology, demographic features, political equations and people's perception. Since 1991, the process of economic reforms has been going on till date. Reforms related to fiscal, monetary, labour, agriculture, industrial and service sectors have been done for the purpose of making market oriented economy. In this regard, the importance of liberalization, privatization, globalization and market are continuously increasing. During the post reform period, the economic and social scenario of India has been changed in particular marketing structure and strategy, technology uses, demographic features, sectoral importance, occupational structure, infrastructure, physical and human capital, role of government, economic and social structure, environmental policies, composition and direction of foreign trade etc. These changes in different sectors seem as paradigm shift in Indian economy.

About the Gorakhpur City

City of Gorakhpur is situated in the eastern part of Uttar Pradesh near Indo-Nepal border. The city has been blessed with the birth, life and ideals of Great souls of Gautam Buddha, Kabir and Guru Gorakhnath. The city is also known for a number of renowned personalities such as Munshi Prem Chand, Firaq Gorakhpuri and Hanuman Prasad Poddar. Apart from the Gorakhnath Temple, the city has many other attractions to offer for visitors which include the Geeta Press, Maghar, Kushinagar, Kapilvastu, Lumbini, and Shrivasti. Besides, Chauri-Chuara, which is remembered for the famous mutiny against the British Empire, is also a part of the Gorakhpur city.

The city is well connected by rail and national highway road with major cities such as Delhi, Kolkata, Chennai, Mumbai, Chandigarh, Amritsar, Lucknow, Bhopal, Guwahati, Deharadun, Agra, Patana, Bengluru, Ahmedabad, Ranchi, Raipur, Hyderabad and Trevendram. The city has also direct air connectivity with Delhi and Lucknow. The climate condition of the city in February is pleasant having an average temperature ranges from 10°C to 23°C.
